

Stanford Workshop in Formal Demography

8 - 19 August 2005

http://popstudies.stanford.edu/summer\_course.html

TOPICS:

Models and Methods for Mortality, Migration, Disability and Related Life-Cycle Transitions
Models and Methods for Fertility
Projection, Forecasting, and Historical Reconstruction
Social Processes and Aggregate Demographic Behavior

The workshop is open to graduate students, post-docs, and junior faculty interested in including formal demography in their research. Applications consist of a 250 word research statement and a Curriculum vitae. State whether you need financial aid (participants pay travel, board, lodging; limited aid is available). Graduate students must also include one letter of recommendation from a faculty member.

Mail, Email, or Fax applications to:

Geraldine Pardo
Administrative Associate
to Prof. Tuljapurkar
Stanford University
Department of Biological Sciences
Gilbert 116
Stanford, CA 94305

Phone: (650) 723-6311

Fax: (650) 724-3708

E-mail: gcpardo@stanford.edu

* Applications are due NO LATER than April 7, 2005 - one week after the Philadelphia PAA 2005 meetings

FACULTY:

Shripad Tuljapurkar, Stanford University

James Holland Jones, Stanford University

Joel E. Cohen, Rockefeller University

Marcus W. Feldman, Stanford University

Joshua Goldstein, Princeton University

Shiro Horiuchi, Rockefeller University

Hans-Peter Kohler, University of Pennsylvania

Ronald D. Lee, University of California, Berkeley

Nan Li, Duke University

Robert D. Mare, University of California, Los Angeles

Thomas Pullum, University of Texas, Austin

Robert Schoen, Pennsylvania State University

Anatoli Yashin, Duke University

John Wilmoth, University of California, Berkeley

This workshop is supported by the US National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, and by the Institute for Research in the Social Sciences at Stanford University.