CSDE Funded Traineeships 2012-2013

CSDE is pleased to announce the availability of funded traineeships (fellowships) for students with experience and strong interests in demographic research, for the academic year 2012-2013. To be eligible, applicants must be current graduate students in one of the following departments, programs or schools of the University of Washington:

Anthropology, Economics, Epidemiology, Geography,
Public Affairs, QERM, Sociology, Social Work, Statistics

These traineeships fund graduate students from two sources:

- Shanahan Fellowships are open to all students
- NICHD Fellowships are funded by NIH and are restricted to US Citizens and Permanent Residents (PRs)

We expect up to six fellowships from these two sources to be available in 2012-13, subject to funding. Fellowships are renewable after the first year.

Applications for these funded traineeships should include:

- An application letter from the student stating academic and research plans (2 pages max.)
- Two letters of recommendation
- Up-to-date transcript (can be unofficial)
- Current CV or resume (should indicate whether applicant is a US Citizen or PR)

Applications should include a statement of satisfactory progress from the director of graduate studies/graduate advisor in their home department, school or program.

Successful applicants will be expected to take the core sequence of courses in demography that include CSDE 502, CSDE/Sociology 513 and Sociology 433. In addition, they will enroll in and regularly attend the weekly CSDE seminar series (CSDE 501), and work for 15-19 hours per week with a CSDE faculty affiliate of their choosing on a mutually agreed topic. Students must be in continuous residence while holding the fellowship.

Please send applications directly to the graduate program director/coordinator in your department, or PhD program director in your school or program.

Completed applications must be received by your department or school by 5 pm on

Wednesday, February 22nd, 2012
