

Journal Title	Editor/Contact	Previous Response (7/97)	Current Response (4/02)
American Journal of Public Health	Mary E. Northbridge, Ed.-in-chief Columbia U.	n/a
American Journal of Sociology	Andrew Abbott, Ed. ajs@src.uchicago.edu	n/a
American Sociological Review	Charles Camic and Franklin Wilson, Eds. (U. Wisconsin) asr@ssc.wisc.edu	n/a
Annals of Statistics	John Marden, Ed. annstat@stat.uiuc.edu	Certainly we have accepted many papers which had been previously electronically available. After publication, the copyright becomes property of the IMS.
British Journal of Sociology	bjs@lse.ac.uk	Our position is that before being able to consider a working paper that had appeared on a university's web site we would need to know whether the copyright resided with the author submitting the work or whether they had assigned it to the University. If the former then there would be no problem, if the latter the author would then have to obtain permission from the University to publish the paper elsewhere and we would have to acknowledge the original appearance of the paper in the normal way.
Canadian Journal of Statistics	Richard A. Lockhart lockhart@cs.sfu.ca	We do not consider papers that have appeared as working papers on an authors home page to have been previously published, and therefore do accept such submissions to our journal. Of course papers that have appeared in or are under review for an electronic peer-reviewed journal would not be eligible for submission to CJS.

Journal Title	Editor/Contact	Previous Response (7/97)	Current Response (4/02)
Child Development	cdev@umich.edu	n/a	Child Development will not consider for publication any manuscript under review elsewhere or substantially similar to a manuscript already published ( nb papers posted on the world-wide web are considered to be "published").
Criminology	Robert J. Bursik, Jr., Ed. bbursik@umsl.edu	n/a
Current Anthropology	Benjamin S. Orlove, Ed. curranth@ucdavis.edu	The copyrights to any article published in CURRENT ANTHROPOLOGY must be assigned to the Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research. The Wenner-Gren must give permission for any use of a CA article after it has appeared in this journal.
Demographic Research		n/a	The journal will generally not consider for publication papers that have been published elsewhere unless publication has been as a working paper or in a similar form. Presentations which have not been published as part of a printed volume of conference proceedings may be submitted. ( http://www.demographic-research.org/ )
Demography	Daniel T. Lichter, Ed. demography@osu.edu	Such papers are eligible for publication in DEMOGRAPHY. They are treated as preprinted working papers of any kind.
Development and Psychopathology	Dante Cicchetti, Ed. U. Rochester	n/a
Educational Evaluation and Policy Analysis	Barbara Schneider, Ed. NORC at U. Chicago	n/a
The Gerontologist	Laurence G. Branch, Ed.-in-Chief tg@geri.duke.edu	If the working papers are not under consideration for print publication elsewhere, they may be submitted to The Gerontologist for peer review.

Journal Title	Editor/Contact	Previous Response (7/97)	Current Response (4/02)
Health Affairs		n/a	Papers or parts of papers that have been published or accepted for publication elsewhere (including being posted on the Internet) are not considered.
Hormones and Behavior	hbjnl@bu.edu	n/a
International Journal of Educational Policy, Research and Practice	Ed. Asst. ijeprp@tempest.coedu.usf.edu	n/a
International Studies Quarterly	Kirsten Rafferty, Ed. Asst. kraffert@iastate.edu	I checked with our editors, and they have said that this is fine, that as long as the papers have not been previously published, they may be considered for publication.
Journal for the Scientific Study of Religion	Ted G. Jelen, Ed. U. Nevada	n/a
Journal of Labor Economics	Derek A. Neal, Ed. jole@gsb.uchicago.edu	Such papers would be admitted to the refereeing process. They would be treated the same way as papers that had been circulated as working papers through print media.
Journal of Health and Social Behavior	Michael Hughes, Ed. (Virginia Polytechnic Institute) jhsb@vt.edu	n/a
Journal of Human Resources	Jonathan S. Skinner Jonathan.S.Skinner@Dartmouth.edu	Such papers may be submitted to the Journal of Human Resources and will undergo the standard editorial review process. The fact that working papers have been listed on a web does not preclude consideration.
Journal of Marriage and Family	Alexis J. Walker, Ed. Alexis.Walker@orst.edu	I don't see a problem; please feel free to submit the ms to JMF

Journal Title	Editor/Contact	Previous Response (7/97)	Current Response (4/02)
Journal of Rural Health	Thomas C. Rosenthal, Ed. ruralhealth@buffalo.edu	If the entire paper has been published electronically it constitutes prior publication. This Journal may choose to re-publish such an article if we felt it needed greater exposure to our readership. In general, electronic posting of a paper amounts to general publication.	The author is required to fully disclose to the editor the extent and type of prior dissemination. ( http://www.nrharural.org/pagefile/rh.html#anchor69456 )
Journal of the American Geriatrics Society	jags@king-drew.com	The Journal of the American Geriatrics Society will consider submission of papers that, as working papers, have been made available on a university's web site but have never been published.
Journal of the American Statistical Association	journals@amstat.org	The American Statistical Association's journals currently accept articles that have been previously published on a Web site. This may change. I have been told by several of our authors that their organizations require them to post their articles on the organization's Web site, so this is likely to be a difficult change to implement.
Maternal and Child Health Journal	Milton Kotelchuck, Ed. Marieclaire Cloutier, Publishing Dir. cloutier@plenum.com	n/a
Population and Development Review	Paul Demeny, Ed. pdemeny@popcouncil.org	n/a

Journal Title	Editor/Contact	Previous Response (7/97)	Current Response (4/02)
Physical Therapy	Jules M. Rothstein jules-rothstein@attbi.com	Our Instructions to Authors state that articles that have been previously been made available in a substantive widespread manner will be considered ineligible due to prior disclosure. Posting on a web site would be considered widespread and we would not accept such an article.	Prior disclosure of any part of the contents of any manuscript in a widespread and substantive form, print or electronic, may make the manuscript ineligible for publication in Physical Therapy . Note: Publication of abstracts associated with scientific meetings does not usually constitute prior disclosure—unless the abstract contains a lengthy and substantive report of the research. Widespread distribution of abstracts or other materials (eg, papers in the form of proceedings) describing the research will be considered prior disclosure. Manuscripts that have been presented orally at a scientific meeting or at a professional forum should include a footnote alerting readers to that fact, and authors should notify the Editor in Chief in the cover letter of transmittal of any such oral presentations. http://www.ptjournal.org/info/aut_info.cfm
Review of Economics and Statistics	restat@arrow.fas.harvard.edu	At the Review of Economics and Statistics, we currently take a narrow interpretation of the term “previously published” to be restricted to printed bound media. A paper that appeared in a conference proceedings would be interpreted as being previously published (and we therefore would not consider it) but a paper on a web site would not be. This policy might need to be reviewed in the future but we have no immediate plans to do so.
Rural Sociology	Ann Tickamyer (Ohio U.) ruralsoc@ohio.edu	n/a
Social Forces	Richard L. Simpson, Ed. UNC	n/a
Social Science Quarterly	Robert L. Linberry, Ed. (U. Houston)	n/a

Journal Title	Editor/Contact	Previous Response (7/97)	Current Response (4/02)
Sociological Methodology	Ross M. Stolzenberg, Ed. r-stolzenberg@uchicago.edu	yes
Studies in Family Planning	Julie Reich, Managing Ed. jreich@popcouncil.org	To me, working papers are not published papers, and are suitable for SFP review. Whether such papers are circulated electronically or on paper should not concern us. The current policy of Studies in Family Planning is to accept submissions of papers that have been placed on the internet as working papers, provided that the material has not appeared in another journal and is not copyrighted. (-J. Reich) Key:  = previously indicated that the journal will accept papers included in an electronic working papers series  = journal will accept papers included in an electronic working papers series  = journal will not accept papers included in an electronic working papers series			