Workshop and Conference on Formal Demography: Special Emphasis Topic – Mortality

June 4-8 2018

To be held at the UC Berkeley Clark Kerr Conference Center

Speakers

- Joshua Goldstein, Professor, Departments of Demography, UC Berkeley
- Magali Barbieri, Scientist, Department of Demography, UC Berkeley and INED.
- And more to be announced.

Join us for an educational program designed to train the next generation of population researchers in the methods in formal demography. This week-long program, with funding by NICHD R25HD083136 consists of three days of hands-on training followed by two days of research presentations by invited faculty. Trainees may choose to take part in a mentored research project and present a poster at the 2019 Population Association of America annual meeting.

The workshop is targeted to advanced graduate students, postdoctoral fellows, assistant professors and other early career researchers. We are particularly interested in supporting underrepresented minorities. Those studying aspects of mortality, health disparities, economics, sociology, and public health will particularly benefit, but those with other interests should also apply. Financial Support: Trainees' expenses for materials, lodging and meals will be covered. Need-based support for travel is available. We regret that we cannot cover travel from outside the United States.

Application materials and more information about the program and formal demography can be found on the Workshop website: <http://www.populationsciences.berkeley.edu/population-center/programs/formal-demography>. Apply by March 5, 2018.
